Horror

We have all watched a horror film or read a scary story. But what is it that make us keep looking at the film or reading the book?

First of all it is because it somehow keep our attention. You feel that there is an invisible string between you and the film or the book. In my opinion that is the reason why it is difficult to leave in the middle of it even though you are almost frightened to death. You just cannot leave.

In films and books you often feels sympathy for the narrator or another character. Suddenly you are a part of the film or the book and you want to know what will happen to that character later in the story. You want to know how it end.

A good thing about watching horror films or reading scary stories is that your life afterwards become so easy. You are not so nervous or scared if you experiences something. Everything seem as water compared to what you have just seen or read. Nothing in the real world can be as horrible as what you have just experienced. When you watch horror films or read scary stories, you becomes stronger and are able to handle more.
